

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

About Google Book Search

Google's mission is to organize the world's information and to make it universally accessible and useful. Google Book Search helps readers discover the world's books while helping authors and publishers reach new audiences. ## REFERENCE DEPARTMENT.

A comparison of the statistics for 1915-1916 with those of the biennium 1912-14 shows that last year alone we sent out almost as many books as during the biennium, the difference, to be exact, being 888. The average number of different places reached each week was 47.1 in 1915-16 against 39.4 the year before and 28 in 1913-14. Our work, therefore, has almost doubled since the last report was issued. The people of the state are evidently eager to make use of the State Library and there is no doubt that the Library can be made one of the great educational forces of Indiana. Just now we are so greatly handicapped by lack of books and lack of assistance in the Reference Department that we can only approximate the service that should be rendered. Not only are more persons using the State Library, but they are also demanding more of it. We are expected to have the best books in all fields of knowledge, and it is often humiliating indeed to be obliged to acknowledge the great gaps that occur in all but a few classes, such as economics, sociology, and American and Indiana history, which must be kept up at all costs.

Two years ago we needed badly another permanent assistant. This was not granted and we are still under the difficulty of training a new temporary assistant every year. The great increase of the last two years now renders necessary not only a third assistant who has had college and library training, but also a fourth one to do our stenographic work and to take charge of the routine work of charging and renewing books, sending out overdue notices, clipping, etc., all of which has become increasingly burdensome with the increase in loans.

CATALOGING DEPARTMENT.

The activities of this department have been confined for the most part, in keeping the current work up to date. An increase in the books and binding fund has increased the number of accessions and likewise the number of items sent to the bindery, all of which causes considerably more work in the Cataloging Department.

Much time has been spent in shelf re-arrangement and in moving books in order to make the resources of the library as accessible as the crowded conditions will permit.

The addition of room 49 to the library has given much more space for shelving, but this only accommodates the newspapers up to 1915. A large portion of these had been stored in the basement, so that very little additional space has been given to the library proper. All newspapers, with a few exceptions, received since 1915 will have to be stored in the basement until some provision is made for more space.

All the newspapers published outside of the state, belonging to the State Library, were collated and cataloged during the last year.

This brings the cataloging practically up to date, and there is very little uncataloged material except what has been received during the last few weeks. However, much revision is needed to be done, and for the next two years what time is not needed for current work will be spent along this line, especially in revising the subject headings, in order to meet the present day demands.

DEPARTMENT OF INDIANA HISTORY AND ARCHIVES.

Since the last report of this Department was made, two years ago, the activities there outlined have been continued. The indexing of the Vincennes Sun has been carried on during the summer months and has been completed to 1824.

The activities of the Centennial year increased very materially the work of this Department, and with the assistance of the Indiana Historical Commission the Department was enabled to secure a second assistant, Mr. John W. Oliver, Ph.D. in History from the University of Wisconsin.

The Department has been able to avail itself of some very valuable research work in Indiana history by co-operating with similar state historical agencies in Michigan, Illinois, Wisconsin, Iowa and Minnesota. By combining our resources we have been able to carry on historical research which would otherwise have been impossible. As a result, during the past year the U. S. Government archives of the Department of State have been carefully examined for material which would bear upon the history of Indiana, and all such material has been indexed and the cards are available in this department. The work has been so satisfactory that arrangements have been made to continue it the coming year in the Department of the Interior.

The Director of the Department has spoken before teachers' institutes and county historical societies in twenty counties of the State in the interests of the work of the Department and the State Library.

By an act of the General Assembly of 1915, approved March 8, 1915, creating an Indiana Historical Commission, the Director of the Department of Indiana History and Archives was made an ex officio member, and on its organization he was elected Secretary of the Commission.

The Commission's activities have been of great assistance to the Department and in like manner the Department and the State Library as a whole have been of great assistance to the Commission.

The Director of the Department was President of the Ohio Valley Historical Association for 1915-1916, and he is Chairman of the Conference of Historical Societies of the American Historical Association. He has also edited a volume on "Indiana as Seen By Early Travelers," which will be published this year by the Indiana Historical Commission.

Miss McNitt, assistant in the Department since its organization, spent a month of the summer of 1916 in the historical department of the New York State Library, and she has been granted a leave of absence for the year 1916-1917 to specialize in this work in the New York State Library School.

The Lasselle collection of historical manuscripts has been classified and cataloged since the last report. During the last two years six of the Quarterly Bulletins of the Indiana State Library have been devoted to Indiana historical interests: the Bulletins of September and December, 1914, were devoted to a series of brief studies on the leading phases of history of Indiana; the Bulletin of September, 1915, consisted of an Indiana Bibliography; the Bulletin of March, 1916, was made up of brief biographies of the Governors of Indiana prepared by the Director; the Bulletin of June, 1916, contained the address of Mr. Oliver, assistant in the Department, which was given before the Mississippi Valley Historical Association last April, entitled "The Position of the Historian in Statehood Centennials"; and the September, 1916, Bulletin consists of a study of the "Sources of the Population of Indiana, 1816-1916," by Prof. J. E. Layton, of Kent, Ohio, State Normal College.

The Department is now preparing to issue a Bulletin in December, 1916, containing a list of all Indiana newspapers available in the State Library, the Indianapolis Public Library, the State University Library and the Library of Congress.

In response to the invitation extended to all persons desiring information on questions of Indiana history, many inquiries have been received and given due attention. In this connection, a department of reference questions concerning Indiana has been established. Undoubtedly this phase of the work is one of most vital concern to all interested in the history of Indiana, and it is hoped that sufficient provision will be made for the Department as will make possible the employment of additional help for this particular work. The Department is anxious to co-operate with any individuals, institutions, or historical societies to further common interests, as well as to locate and secure, when possible, any material bearing upon the history of Indiana.

The State Library is in a position to administer such material to better advantage to the people of the State than any other institution or agency, and it is desirable that the historical materials be collected together for the good of all rather than that they be scattered and be made difficult of access.

The Department is anxious to secure the following kinds of material, which may be found in attics, private libraries, places of business, and elsewhere:

All books and pamphlets relating to Indiana; all writings of Indiana authors; private manuscripts, such as letters, journals, dairies, scrap-books, etc.; old and current files of Indiana newspapers; biographical and genealogical material concerning Indiana people; all literature bearing upon the institutional development of the State, such as churches, educational institutions, lodges, social and patriotic organizations, etc.; and, in short, anything which has to do with the activities of the State. Any person having such material will help the State in the collection and preservation of its historical records, if he notify the State Library at Indianapolis.

ACADEMY OF SCIENCE AGREEMENT.

The Academy of Science collection comprises reports from scientific societies and museums in nearly every country in the world; publications of the scientific associations in the United States; miscellaneous scientific works of all sorts. By an agreement with the Academy this collection is now in our cataloger's hands, and it is ready for reference. The terms of the agreement were submitted to the State Library Board and accepted. The agreement covers the following points:

The State Library shall organize and catalog the Academy collection, except the United States Government publications which are duplicates. Complete volumes shall be bound at the expense of the Library. Incomplete sets shall be filled out as far as practicable—by exchange, if possible. A separate card catalog shall be made. If the Academy ever removes the collection it shall pay the library for the outlay in binding. The copies of the reports of the Academy of Science shall be distributed to its members at the Academy's expense; the library shall pay for the distribution to libraries and institutions. The volumes may be taken from the library by the members of the Academy, but used by the general public as reference works only.

Six months' notice may terminate the agreement.

The Librarian wishes to call the attention of the public to the availability of the State Library as a depository. Newspaper files, valuable records, manuscripts and letters which throw light upon the history of the State or the United States, should be deposited in the library. They are thus open to use by the public and serve a great purpose; and, secondly, they are not subject to the danger of fire. The future historian will use all this material as his sources, and therefore none of it should be destroyed. The Librarian appeals to all citizens to preserve early records of every sort, and if possible deposit them in the State Library, where they will be not merely safe but also useful. Due credit will always be given on our records of gifts and deposits.

BOOKS FOR THE BLIND.

The Library now has eight hundred and seventeen volumes in embossed type. There have been during the biennial period some purchases and gifts. The books in embossed type are quite expensive, so that not many books have been purchased. The State Library, however, can easily afford to purchase some of these books. The list includes volumes in history, biography and general literature.

For the last two years the library has loaned an average of twenty volumes per month. They are loaned to the blind on the same terms as books are now loaned to other citizens. The Postmaster-General, under his order number 541, June 2, 1904, permitted the carriage of books in embossed type through the mails free of charge. This has been a very great convenience and blessing to the blind. There are still some blind persons in the State who do not know of these privileges. It has been the effort of the Librarian to make known the fact that these books are here and may be so readily loaned to blind readers.

It is unfortunate that the blind are taught to read so many distinct alphabets. Many of the older readers can not use the newer styles. The library is compelled, therefore, to purchase books in all the alphabets. This means duplication, but it can not be prevented. It is greatly to be desired that the schools settle upon one style of type and that all persons be taught the one alphabet.

THE LIBRARY, SCHOOLS AND CLUBS.

It is the purpose of the Librarian to bring about a more perfect connection between the library and the schools and school men. We want this to be the place where superintendents, principals and pupils may send for assistance in making references and obtaining information about books. We are ready to purchase books on educational subjects, especially technical works, which may be inaccessible in smaller libraries. During the last two years many books have been purchased and some assistance given to the teachers of the State. Our desire is to continue and enlarge this field of work.

The aim is to make the State Library the center for books to all the school people of the State, and we ask them, therefore, to communicate with this library and make known their wants. The staff is composed of college-trained people whose business it is to know books and where to find things about books. The library is the servant of the public school men.

We are ready to assist the literary clubs of the State. The reference department has classified the club programs now in the library in order that they may be consulted more conveniently. If programs are sent to us, the reference librarian will send reference lists of books or magazine articles which we will purchase if necessary. Assistance will be given, too, in preparing programs. During the past two years many of the literary organizations in the State have asked us for help, which we have gladly given. We wish to make this as broad as possible and to include all organizations which are engaged in any kind of study or investigation. The library is their servant also.

PUBLIC DOCUMENTS.

The library receives from nearly all the States their official reports in exchange for Indiana documents. The matter of exchange has been in some confusion, but recently the Association of State Libraries took up the subject for investigation. It is now known more definitely what states will exchange. For the benefit of officials and the public in general, this library wants all the reports from all the States, and is trying to secure them. We catalog and shelve these reports so that they are ready for reference at all times. In general, they cover the same field as the Indiana documents, and are of great value to the investigator.

The United States documents are received by the State Library as a depository. All that are published by the Federal Government are received in this library, cataloged and shelved. The government supplies an index. These documents are extensively used. They belong to the government and must remain in the library. It would be better if they could be loaned. An effort to secure this privilege will be made eventually.

EXAMINATIONS FOR POSITIONS.

The merit system has been established for many years in the Indiana State Library. Section ten of the Library Law says: "The Library Board shall formulate rules and regulations for the care and management of the Library." In accordance with this requirement, and because the Librarian believes that the merit system secures the best results, he asked the board to adopt certain regulations requiring a competitive test before a permanent position on the staff could be obtained. The following are the regulations:

1. First Class qualifications, positions and salaries.

I. Qualifications for appointment.

1. The applicant must be a graduate of a reputable college or university.
2. The applicant must be a graduate of a reputable library school or in lieu thereof shall have been formally instructed and experienced in a modern, well-managed library.
3. The applicant must possess good physical health, and neat personal appearance, and pleasing personality.

II. Positions open to first class assistants.

1. Head of the reference department.
2. Head of the catalog department.
3. Head of department of history and archives.
4. General assistant, if such position should ever be created.
5. The head of any department which shall in the future be created that shall demand college scholarship and technical training.

III. Salaries in first class.

1. Assistants in this class shall receive salaries ranging from eleven hundred to two thousand dollars per year where not fixed by statute.

2. Second Class qualifications, positions and salaries.

I. Qualifications.

1. Scholarship not less than that signified by the first two years of standard college course, and even this shall not be acceptable when a college graduate can be secured.
2. Technical training to the degree of graduation from a reputable library training school, or in lieu thereof not less than one year of instruction and experience in a modern, well-conducted library.
3. The applicant must possess good physical health and neat personal appearance, and pleasing personality.

Note.—It shall be deemed unwise to appoint any one to positions 1, 2 or 3, in the second class, that would not be eligible to promotion to the first class in case a vacancy should occur in the first class; but if such appointment shall seem temporarily necessary, it shall be considered only temporary and to be changed as soon as opportunity permits.

II. Positions open to second class assistants.

1. Assistant reference librarian.
2. Assistant catalogers.
3. Head of the office department.

III. Salaries from seven hundred and twenty to nine hundred and sixty dollars per year.

3. Third Class qualifications, positions and salaries.

I. Qualifications.

1. Special fitness by nature, training and personal qualities for the particular work to be done.

EXAMINATIONS FOR POSITIONS—Continued.

2. The applicant must possess good physical health and neat personal appearance, and pleasing personality.
- II. Positions open to third class assistants.
  1. Temporary assistants directly under the head of any department already provided for, viz.:
    - a. Reference and loan department.
    - b. Catalog department.
    - c. Office department.
  2. Messengers, janitors, pages or day laborers.
- III. Salaries for third class assistants range from ten to sixty-five dollars per month, to be determined by the nature of the work and the special aptitude exhibited by the person for the work.
4. Fourth Class (apprentices) qualifications, requirements and compensation.
  - I. Qualifications.
    1. Not less than high school graduation.
    2. All the natural and personal characteristics required of all other employes of the library.
  - II. Requirements.
    1. Continuous service in the library on the same days and hours as the employes of the other classes and for a period of not less than three nor more than ten months.
    2. Each apprentice is expected to do under supervision of the head of a department all kinds of work done by any assistant in the library.
  - III. Compensation.
    1. Persons working as apprentices shall receive small compensation, the teaching given by salaried members of the staff being deemed an even exchange for the service rendered the library by the apprentice.
- Notes.
  1. The library is never under any obligation to accept any one as an apprentice.
  2. No apprentice can work up to a position on the staff of the State Library in class one or two without taking at least one year of training in a library school, and possessing scholastic requirements.
5. Retaining a position when secured depends upon:
  1. Efficiency of service.
  2. Congeniality as a member of the staff.
  3. Punctuality and regularity in service.
  4. Loyalty to the Board, the Institution and the Librarian.

According to the rules adopted on March 20, 1908, applicants who fulfill these requirements may take the examination for staff positions.

Several regular positions on the staff have been filled by examination, and the results have been exceedingly satisfactory.

ROOMS IN THE BASEMENT.

There are two rooms for the use of the library in the basement, both of which are very much crowded. In one of the rooms there are stored, in regular order, about eight hundred complete volumes of magazines and ten thousand single numbers. In this room, also, are the classified reports of the State offices and institutions for many years past. They are preserved for exchange purposes. The reports and proceedings of the Indiana Academy of Science are also filed here. There are several thousands of them and they are held for future use in supplying the demands of new members. This room is now so crowded that nothing further can be stored in it.

The other room is used largely for unpacking and distributing the documents. There are filed here House Journals, Senate Journals and Documentary Journals, extending as far back as we possess them. They are distributed regularly to all Indiana libraries, State institutions, State officers and members of the Legislature. This distribution occurs on the average twice a year. It will soon be necessary for the library to have additional room in the basement if these journals and State reports are to be kept on file.

A NEW BUILDING.

The great need for the growth of this institution is a new building. The library is growing, but the limit of usefulness for the arrangement of books and the convenience of readers has now been reached. Everybody desires the library to grow. The State of Indiana is large enough and rich enough to deal liberally with this matter. At present we cannot arrange our material to the best advantage; the various departments do not have the proper room for the best work; the catalog room is a part of the reading room, and the noise from its work is an annoyance; we can not plan large things for the future. These are some of the hindrances to growth. Here, then, are the reasons for the proposed improvement:

First. If the library is to be of use in the State, it must grow. The newspaper files alone (and they are valuable for the future historian) are now crowding the shelves. The Department of Indiana Archives will grow rapidly from now on. Books in all departments of learning, literature and science are in demand daily. The State is behind in its collection of books. We cannot make any claims of progress and remain inactive. The library cannot grow without adequate, well arranged space. Mere rooms will not do. There is no more room in the Capitol. The building is crowded. The same condition exists in the museum. How shall we grow without a building suitable for the purpose?

Second. A library among other offices does not, and never has, met the demands. It is a recognized fact that a separate structure alone solves the problem. Colleges and cities obtain a library as soon as possible.

Third. Indiana is a literary center, and such a building would be a credit and a matter of pride to the whole State. It would be for the whole State, to whose service it is devoted.

Fourth. It would bring together the State interests, which are virtually one, namely, Library, Museum, Library Commission, Historical Society, Board of Education, (which controls the library), and Indiana Academy of Science, all of which are educational, even though two of the officials at the head of those departments are nominated by political conventions. A large amount of space would thus be left in the Capitol for the offices now needing it.

Fifth. Any other arrangement of offices would not allow the Library and Museum to increase. There is no arrangement of the building which can be made so that these growing interests can be accommodated. They cannot be divided by putting part in one place and part in another.

A State Library and Museum can be built adjoining the present State House grounds. As has been mentioned in the Bulletin, other states have such buildings and have gone far ahead of Indiana.

PORTRAITS OF THE GOVERNORS.

In the Indiana State Library are hung the portraits of the Governors of the State. At present four are lacking—those of William Hendricks, 1822-1825; Winfield T. Durbin, 1901-1905; Thomas R. Marshall, 1909-1913; and Samuel M. Ralston, 1913-1917. It is impossible to secure the portrait of William Hendricks, but Winfield T. Durbin has promised to donate his to the State.

SCOPE AND NEEDS.

The demands upon the Library are now varied. We have calls for books not merely in history, economics, sociology, and for public documents, but in education, general literature, science, theology,
